

Why Students Should Get Enough Sleep

I. INTRODUCTION

- A. Attention Getter – How many students here slept less than 6 hours last night?
- B. Background of the Issue – Many students stay up late due to schoolwork, social media, or gaming. Because of this, students often go to school tired and unable to focus.
- C. Thesis Statement – Students should prioritize getting enough sleep because it improves academic performance, protects mental health, and supports physical health.
- D. Preview of Main Points – Sleep improves learning and focus; sleep protects mental health; sleep supports physical health.

II. BODY

- A. First Main Point – Sleep improves academic performance
 - 1. Explanation – The brain processes and stores information during sleep.
 - 2. Supporting Detail – Students who sleep longer tend to concentrate better and perform better on exams.
- B. Second Main Point – Sleep protects mental health
 - 1. Explanation – Lack of sleep increases stress, irritability, and anxiety.
 - 2. Supporting Detail – Students who are sleep-deprived are more likely to feel overwhelmed and emotionally exhausted.
- C. Third Main Point – Sleep supports physical health
 - 1. Explanation – Sleep allows the body to rest and repair itself.
 - 2. Supporting Detail – People who regularly lack sleep are more likely to get sick and feel constantly tired.

III. CONCLUSION

- A. Restate Thesis – Getting enough sleep is essential for students to perform well academically and stay healthy.
- B. Summary of Main Points – Sleep improves learning, protects mental health, and supports physical health.
- C. Closing Statement / Call to Action – Students should start prioritizing rest instead of sacrificing sleep for late-night activities.